Shermco to add Spark and Speakeasy to PowerTest 2013

Electrical Maintenance & Safety Conference

NEW ORLEANS – Shermco Industries will provide experts to speak in a variety of tracks at this year’s PowerTest 2013 Electrical Maintenance & Safety Conference, to be held Feb. 18-21 at the Sheraton New Orleans Hotel. It will also host a speakeasy-themed hospitality suite, “Spark your electrical knowledge and speak, easy!”

The Shermco speakeasy will be on Monday night, Feb. 18, from 6 to 10 p.m. and will feature music from the roaring 20s, after-dinner drinks, professional cigar roller, and complimentary food, cigars, cigar cutters, matches and souvenir snifters.

Shermco professionals will provide the following training for the conference’s educational tracks. Jim White will be the Safety Panel moderator, and will present Electrical Safety Myths and Misconceptions, as well as Hazards of Electricity, Shock, Arc and Blast: An Educational Journey Through Case Studies. Mike Hancock will present Are You Really Testing Your Instrument Transformers. Mike Moore will speak on Finding and Retaining Qualified Electrical Workers: It's About Safety in the Workplace. Calvin Earp will moderate a panel of industry experts on Motors and Generators. Malcom Frederick and Jim Miller will present The Field Repair and Adjustment of Low-Voltage Power Circuit Breakers.

“We are always proud to be a part of PowerTest. This is the most important electrical safety and maintenance conference each year,” said Widup. “Every year the subject matter experts are of the highest caliber and the material is the most relevant and timely. We’re looking forward to this year being no exception.”
